american honey FARMER'S DAUGHTER

About Me

I am a Midwest American Honey, the daughter of a fifth-generation farmer, passionate about teaching others the national advantages of rural farming and the 'common ground' that unites this nation. Maybe we aren't so divided after all? It just takes a spoonful of something sweet and sticky and a bit of grit and grace to see the good!

Please enjoy my lighthearted farm stories, personal farm pictures, a few fun facts, and some recipes that bring the farm to your table. Thanks for visiting my site!

Sincerely,

an american honey

From the desk of a rural Midwest American honey! Want to know more about me? Click my picture above!

Search
	S	EARCH

Recent Posts
American Honey Zucchini Bread
Mom's Meatball Soup
Love Thy Neighbor
Give'r the Beans
Chickens: Facts About Barnyard Fowl

~

Recent Comments

Love Thy Neighbor - American Honey on A-MAIZE-ing American Farms

Teresa Samec on A Backseat Life Lesson

A Backseat Life Lesson - American Honey on One Nation United Through Farming

Grandma's Kitchen - American Honey on You Grow Girls! - Women in Farming

Megan K on Keep on Truckin'